The Chicago Post asks, "Does it pay to be good?" We pass.

Next Tuesday is election day. We've got to see all the returns in before we believe that Parker is to get it in the neck.

A New York man talked with a fisherman a few minutes and then jumped overboard. That is a poor way to pooh pooh what a fisherman says.

Japan is kicking because the neutral ports are affording the Baltic fleet asylum. A lunatic asylum would be the best haven for the Russian admiral to run into.

When Roosevelt heard that Crane, of Massachusetts, had been appointed United States Senator he said he was delighted. If a Crane pleases him he would have a fit if a stork could get into the Senate.

A Chicago juryman dropped dead while listening to a woman's complaint of what her husband had been doing to her. The woman that could take the breath away from a juryman ought to have found her husband something easy.

A fashion magazine says "small checks are the proper things for women this fall." The husband that fills out a small check for his wife will find out from her that he does not know what the magazine writer means.

Some people in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., had a neighbor arrested and demanded that he be ducked under an old blue law, for being a common scold Gee! What would they do to the likes of Roosevelt if they were to read his books?

There is a movement to deter kissing by frightening people with the announcement that a germ known as the craw-craw is communicated by the conjunction of lips in an osculatory stunt. The craw-craw can rest assured as positively as a Trust that nobody is going to rock the boat.

We have been committed to the Washington Post as being a prophet with a knowing head, but when the Post begins to look through the veil and foretell the election of Roosevelt it causes us anguish to say without hesitation that prophesies like that must be consigned to "the limbo of negation," as your Uncle Cleveland would say. Has the Post no rabbit foot at all?

— Hon. Jas. H. Pou, of Raleigh, arrived last night and is a guest at The Orton.

— The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A. will hold their regular monthly meeting to-day at 4:30 P. M. when matters of importance will be considered and all members are urged to be present. In the absence of Mrs. C. C. Covington, Mrs. C. T. Harper will preside at the meeting.

— The mixed foursome match on the Cape Fear Golf Club links Saturday afternoon was won by Mrs. Annie Northrop and Mr. Robert H. Gwaltney. They made the nine holes in 62 strokes. Miss Calder and Mr. George Rountree came second, with a score of 64.

— A large congregation heard Pastor Hale, of the First Baptist church, Sunday night, on the evils of the ball room. The sermon was in no wise sensational but it was upon a practical subject and therefore deeply interesting. Ten persons were received into the fellowship of the church after the service.

— Despite the general apathy on the part of voters, the registration which closed Saturday was very heavy. In the Third ward, for instance, 510 names were recorded. Delinquent voters awoke to their duty at the last moment and it is safe to say there are few who will be disqualified for the lack of registration at the general election next Tuesday.

CONSECRATION TODAY

Rev. Dr. Robert Strange Will Be Inducted Into Bishopric This Morning.

MANY VISITORS ARE HERE.

Service Will be Beautiful and Impressive. Reception To-night in Light Infantry Armory — Missionary Meeting at St. John's Church.

Beautiful and most impressive ceremonies in St. James church this morning will mark the consecration of the Rev. Dr. Robert Strange as Bishop Coadjutor of the East Carolina Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church. It was announced Sunday morning that all arrangements had been completed by the committee in charge, of which Capt. T. D. Meares is chairman, and yesterday was given over by the committee to welcoming the distinguished body of men and women from this and other States, who arrived on every train to attend the service. All of the Bishops and clergy, who will take part in the solemn ceremonies, and a large per centage of the visitors for the occasion, are already here and the few remaining ones, who have signified their purpose of attending the consecration, will arrive this morning. In the party to arrive to-day will be a delegation of eight or ten prominent members of Dr. Strange's parish in Richmond. Dr. and Mrs. Strange are already here and are guests at the home of Mr. G. Herbert Smith.

The consecration service will begin at 11 o'clock, though the doors of the church will be open as early as 10:15 A. M., and ushers will be in attendance to seat any who may be present in advance of the regular hour. The beloved Bishop Watson will be in attendance and will be a distinguished figure in that body of great and good men who will induct into his office his coadjutor in the important work of the Diocese. The Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, Bishop of South Carolina will preside at the consecration, and the sermon will be by the Rt. Rev. Alfred Magill Randolph, Bishop of Southern Virginia.

The offertory during the service will be for Diocesan Missions.

The reception at the W. L. I. armory to-night will be very informal in its nature and for the purpose of giving friends in Wilmington an opportunity of renewing their friendship for Dr. Strange and meeting the distinguished men and women who are and will be here for the service. The hours are from 8:30 to 10:30 o'clock.

The programme of the consecration service, a list of the visitors and by whom entertained, were given in Sunday's papers.

This evening at 7 o'clock, sharp, a missionary meeting will be held in St. John's church. Addresses will be delivered by Bishop Capers, of South Carolina, and Bishop Horner, of Asheville. The service will be short in order to allow every one an opportunity, at its close, to attend the reception at the armory.

AN INTERESTING ADDRESS.

Mr. Samuel F. Jones Tells of Great Work at Rescue Mission in Boston.

Although the parquet of the Academy of Music was filled with an audience of both ladies and gentlemen last evening, it is a source of genuine regret that more of the people of Wilmington did not hear the interesting address of Mr. Samuel F. Jones, of Boston, upon the nature and extent of his work at the St. Stephen's Rescue Mission in that city. Mr. Jones is a most entertaining speaker, earnest and filled with a love of the noble work in which he is engaged.

Mr. Jones was presented by the distinguished Bishop of South Carolina, the Rt. Rev. Ellison Capers, and the undivided attention of his audience was held from the beginning to the end of his most interesting discourse. Sunday morning Mr. Jones spoke at St. James' and Sunday evening at the Chapel of the Good Shepherd. He will leave this evening, but would be pleased to see anyone interested in rescue work, at The Orton at almost any hour during the day.

The New Afternoon Daily.

It was learned yesterday that the plant of the Capital Printing Company of Hamlet, N. C., has been purchased by Mr. Jno. H. Gore, Jr., and associates who announce their purpose to begin the publication of an afternoon daily independent paper in this city about the latter part of November. The capital stock of the new company will be $4,000 with privilege to increase at any time as the business may demand. An order for one or more Mergenthaler type-setting machines, it is said, will be given next week. It was learned yesterday that all of the stock had been subscribed.

Smallpox in Country.

Dr. W. D. McMillan, county superintendent of health, yesterday discovered a well developed case of smallpox on the person of Joe Walker, colored, 12 miles from the city in Cape Fear township. Walker was brought to the pest house and all contacts in the neighborhood of his home were vaccinated. It is said that the negro contracted the disease while working in Wilmington.

ANOTHER CARNIVAL COMING.

Naval Reserves Will Give Big Week's Benefit Beginning November 14th. Some of the Attractions.

Another carnival is coming.

It will be under the auspices of the Wilmington Division, Naval Reserves, the week of November 14th, the location to be decided later. The proceeds of the fair will be used by the Division for the purchase of Winter uniforms, as the government makes no provision for such supplies for its sailors. That it will be a success, under all ordinary circumstances, goes without saying, for the Naval Reserves will have nothing short of success in anything they undertake.

Ensign S. K. DeVaney is at the head of the carnival enterprise and is undecided whether to have the tents pitched on Third and Castle or in the vicinity of Seventh and Orange. The entire matter will be gone over at the regular meeting of the Division to-night.

The Jones Carnival Co., of which Mr. Percy Wells, formerly of this city, is the manager, will be engaged. It carries six high-class attractions, two free exhibitions and seven privilege booths. It will be guaranteed clean in every respect. Mr. DeVaney will go before the Board of Aldermen Monday evening and the Board of County Commissioners Monday afternoon, asking that the shows be given the usual exemption from tax, in view of the object for which the carnival will be given.

MR. DUKES ACCIDENTALLY SHOT.

Exhibition of Repeating Shotgun Results in Injury to Pedestrian.

Engineer John Dukes, of the Darley Park Brewing Co., was accidentally shot and severely though not seriously injured by the accidental discharge of a repeating shot gun by a young man who works in the freight department of the A. C. L. The young man had just returned from a hunting trip up the Newbern road and was on his way to the freight warehouse on the yard, when he stopped to show a friend how the repeating gun worked. A shell had accidentally been left in the magazine, and as the gun was being worked back and forth, as if in action, the loaded shell fell into play and the gun was accidentally fired. Fortunately the shot struck a board walk and ricocheted before striking Mr. Dukes, who happened to be passing. Twelve, of them, however, took effect, but only three penetrated the flesh. Mr. Dukes was taken to the office of Dr. E. S. Pigford, where he received surgical attention and returned to his duties at the brewery.

Sunday Evening Wedding.

At the residence of Mr. D. W. Mason, corner of Third and Bladen streets, at 7 o'clock Sunday evening, Rev. Geo. B. Webster, pastor of Bladen Street M. E. Church, joined in marriage Miss Ella T. Lewis, of Pender county, and Mr. Ulyses S. Minis, a popular young man of this city. Miss Minnie Mason and Mr. James Alexander were the attendants. A reception was tendered the bride and groom at the home of Mr. Minis's father, during the progress of which the young people received the happiest congratulations of very many friends.

An Uncordial Greeting.

John Russell, colored, presented himself at the police station Sunday night, a woe-begone spectacle. He was down on the wharf and said he spoke to another negro named Tom Betts and received in exchange for his greeting a biff in the moth with a rock. The negro's lips were split open and a few of his teeth were gone. Dr. C. T. Harper, city superintendent of health, was summoned and dressed Russell's injury. Betts was arrested but gave $25 bond for his appearance in the Mayor's court to-day at noon.

Party Not Authorized.

Rev. George B. Webster, pastor of Bladen Street M. E. Church, South, wishes to notify the public that any one representing themselves as authorized to solicit funds for Bladen street Sunday school or church is a fraud, and that if any one will furnish proof as to the guilty party or parties they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. It is necessary for the pastor sometimes to call upon his friends outside of the church for a little financial assistance to do certain work, but he has not sent out any one lately.

Reunion of Pender Veterans.

The Confederate Veterans of Pender county are preparing for a big reunion and rally at Burgaw, Nov. 24th, under the auspices of David Williams Camp, U. C. V., by order of Commander Pettigrew Moore. Brigadier General James I. Metts, Col. W. L. DeRossett, Dr. A. D. Betts, Maj. C. M. Stedman, Gen. Julian S. Carr, Mr. Josephus Daniels and other prominent North Carolinians have been invited to be present. A brass band from Wilmington will furnish the music.

Sixteenth Annual Meeting.

The Christian Association of St. Paul's Lutheran church held its sixteenth annual session Sunday afternoon. The following officers were unanimously re-elected: President, A. D. Wessell; Vice President, F. W. Ortmann; Secretary and Treasurer, J. D. H. Kiander; Trustees, F. W. Ortman, Martin Schnibben, John Kuhlken. The treasurer's report showed the association in a prosperous financial condition.

THE FEDERAL COURT.

Docket for the October Term, Which Convened Here Yesterday, is Rather Light.

JUDGE PURNELL PRESIDING.

Large Number of Submissions Entered During the Day—Fayetteville Attorney Admitted to Practice—The Grand Jury Gets to Work.

The United States District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina convened in this city yesterday morning, Judge Thos. R. Purnell, of Raleigh, presiding, and all other court officers in attendance, viz: District Attorney Harry Skinner; Assistant District Attorney J. A. Giles; Marshal H. C. Dockery; Clerk S. P. Collier; Deputy Clerk James K. Collier; Office Deputy Marshals Jno. C. Dockery and J. T. Sharp. The day's sessions of the court consisted largely of organization and routine work. There are only 36 cases on the docket and it is probable that these will be disposed of before the end of the week. Cases in admiralty, including the libel of the steamer "City of Fayetteville," will probably be taken up to-morrow or Thursday.

Out of the fifty jurors summoned from the various counties in the district the following grand jury was drawn: Matt J. Heyer (foreman), Miles Hair, C. H. Brunson, J. W. McRackin, A. D. Gibson, Jackson Johnson, Peter Rourk, W. C. Hicks, W. P. Oldham, Napoleon Powell, F. D. Williston, P. G. A. Tart, H. J. Falson, O. S. Case, Alonzo Howlett, Carl McLean, Henry Lennon and John Register.

Mr. George R. Bate was sworn as bailiff of the grand jury; Messrs. R. M. Murray and W. J. Orr, bailiffs of the petit juries and Mr. George D. Parsley court crier.

A large number of submissions were entered during the day. In the case of Carson Lennon, of Robeson county, charged with retailing, defendant was sentenced to 60 days in jail and to pay a fine of $100 and costs. Other cases in which sentences were passed were disposed of as follows:

Nash Robeson, Columbus, retailing, 60 days in jail, $100 fine and costs.

Furney Watts, Columbus, retailing, 30 days in jail, $100 fine and costs.

David J. Cashwell, of Fayetteville, was presented by Judge Thomas H. Sutton and was admitted to practice in the Federal courts.

The grand jury got immediately down to work and returned the following true bills during the day: Bettie Jones, Cumberland, retailing; Alice Tillmar and Susan Russell, Cumberland, retailing; A. P. Hornrine, J. H. Bradshaw and G. W. Bass, Sampson, retailing, etc.; Murdoch Smith, Scotland; retailing; Richard Flowers, Columbus, retailing; Furney Watts, retailing; M. Long, Columbus, retailing; E. M. Dees, Jr., Cumberland, retailing. Not a true bill as to Henry Parker, Cumberland, charged with retailing.

Funeral of Worthy Colored Man.

The funeral of the late James C. Howe, the well known colored contractor who died last week, was held Sunday afternoon from Christ's Congregational Church, the officiating minister having been the Rev. John Adams, of Columbia, S. C., Rev. Jas. A. Bonner, of Chesnut Street Presbyterian Church; Rev. Robert Bennett, of St. Mark's P. E. Church; Rev. Jno. E. Jackson, of St. Stephen's A. M. E. Church, and Rev. W. H. Ferris, pastor of Christ's Congregational Church. A number of eulogies were paid to the memory of the worthy colored man. A large congregation of both white and colored persons attended the services. The burial was with Odd Fellow and Pythian honors.

Runaway on Turnpike.

While returning from Wrightsville Sound, on the turnpike Sunday afternoon, a horse being driven by Messrs. John H. Craig and William Opper ran away about six miles from the city and threw both occupants out of the buggy. Mr. Craig's left arm was broken at the wrist and near the elbow. Mr. Opper was slightly bruised and may have suffered internal injury, though he was able to be at his desk at the Coast Line yesterday as usual. Soon after the runaway Mr. Opper took Mr. Craig to Dr. A. H. Harriss' office, where the broken arm was set.

When Russian Meets Jap.

The Y. M. C. A. membership contest between the Japs and Russians begins to-day and it promises to be an exciting affair. Both sides will enter several members to-day and then it will be nip and tuck until after the fifth of December, when it will close. Dr. Harper and Mr. Bryant, the captains, are working hard with their men and it is thought that when the contest is over the Association will have at least 600 members. The Juniors are organized with Lacy King and Bryan Newkirk as captains and they are also working hard to win.

Postoffice Receipts.

Month by month the receipts at the Wilmington postoffice show an increase over the same month last year. During the month ended last night the receipts were $6,187.44 against $5,988.56 during October, 1903—an increase of $148.88.

JEANNE TOWLER IN "IRIS."

Pinero's Celebrated Play Here To-night. A Raleigh Criticism.

Pinero's famous play, "Iris," will be seen at The Academy this evening and judging from the advanced sale of seats, which opened yesterday morning at Plummer's, a large house will witness the production. Sunday's News and Observer says of the piece:

How to describe the play "Iris," to separate its motif and its players, to properly criticise it, is a problem full of difficulty.

It was seen last night at the Academy of Music by a small audience, but a critical one. That the audience was small is due largely to the misdirected advertising matter sent out, for there are expressions and terms used in this which, with good reason, make it a matter of hesitation for people to attend. But this is true. Many plays have been presented in Raleigh bearing upon the same social and ethical problems that were not presented with a tithe of the delicacy which in the performance of "Iris" marked the downfall and utter humiliation of the woman.

The one word with which to characterize the play is "powerful!" It teaches, cruelly and heartlessly, a lesson to women even though it be taught in clever words and by innuendo. It is a play which sets the nerves a-quiver and at its end leaves you sobered, dazed, silenced at the utter hopelessness of the woman, the demoniac rage of the man. It is a story which tears the heart.

Miss Jeanne Fowler as "Iris Bellamy" is an emotional actress of a very high order and her difficult role is played from start to finish with consummate skill, a skill which puts her in the first rank. As "Frederick Maldonanado" Mr. Alex F. Frank grows as the play proceeds, and in the closing acts is really great, while Mr. Frederic Summer as "Laurence Trenwith" does excellently.

The company throughout is a capable one, and the stage setting is of much elegance. The plan upon the topic of which it treats, is a masterpiece and it teaches, a lesson in morality by showing the curse of immorality, and unclean lives. It is strongly, ably presented, but it tells a story that is bitter in the awful wreck of a human life, whose downfall has torn hearts, and left gaping wounds.

Unattended ladies and children need not hesitate to visit the stupendous Adam Forepaugh-Sells Brothers exhibition. Special instructions are given to all employes to protect them.

BEST EVER IN SAVANNAH.

Morning News' Criticism of Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' Big Shows in That City Last Week—Feature Acts.

Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' mammoth shows were in Savannah, Ga., last Tuesday and here is what the always conservative Morning News, of that city, says of the exhibition:

"The best circus I ever saw!" was the exclamations of those who witnessed the performances of the great Adam Forepaugh & Sells Brothers' circus yesterday. This was the verdict of fully 18,000 people who witnessed both performances.

Circuses rarely, if ever, give just exactly what they advertise on the lurid posters spread from one end of the country to the other. In this one particular the owners of the big circus seem yesterday take especial pride and offer a reward of $1,000 to any one who will find anything that they advertise which they do not show.

No one can say after witnessing one of the performances that all circuses are alike. They are all alike in the particular that they are under canvas, and in their general trend follow much the same plan, but the most conservative thing that can be said about this organization is that it is the largest, the cleanest and the most entertaining collection of all the features of a modern circus that has ever pitched its tent in Savannah.

A detail of the performance would be tiresome. Were each act to be put on separately it would require twenty-four hours for all to be completed. In this twenty-four hours the acme of excellence in 300 different acts would be presented by world-famed artists, at least in the circus world.

From the grand entrance to the hair-raising "gap the gap" the immense audience were in breathless contemplation of the innumerable and varied features set before their gaze in seeming confusion, but withal, perfect system.

Commencing with the large concert band, under the direction of William N. Merrick, on through the hundreds of performers, every feature of the great melange of amusement was of unusual class.

More than a score of clowns to amuse while the scenes were being shifted, was a special feature, introducing novelties creditable to a modern comic opera. An almost obsolete feature in the modern circus, lofty tumbling, was of the best.

The Eddie family, in acrobatic work were pleasing. This one act is a show in itself. It is not an imported act but lacks nothing from not having come from across the water. The family is recognized in the circus world as the premier family team of the world. They were the originators of the eccentric full dress tumbling act which created such a furore several years ago.

Other acts of especial excellence were the LeCarmens in high wire acts, the flying Jordans, the Lucassons in their tally-ho novelty, the Aurora Zouaves, Diavolo "looping the loop" on a bicycle, and Prodigious Porthos in "gapping the gap."

The Aurora Zouaves appeared here several years ago at an annual prize drill, capturing every event in which they competed. The loop the loop act and gapping the gap elicited screams from the ladies and children, and are wonderful exhibitions of daring, as well as skill.

ONE REASON WHY LABOR IS SCARCE.

It is a painful fact that labor is scarce throughout the cotton region, and as a matter of fuct we learn that many farmers have not been able to get hands enough to pick a boll out of some of their fields. Some fields are absolutely white with open cotton and there it will stand to be wasted by the winter rains unless it is soon picked. One farmer told us a few days ago that he has a field of fifty acres that has not been picked over once this fall simply because he can't get the labor to do it. Just how many instances of this kind there are we do not know, but as a general thing labor is scarce everywhere. It has been growing scarce every year, and it is not only scarce, but generally trifling and unreliable. Just why the faithful negro cotton hand of a few years ago has developed into a shiftless, lazy and good-for-nothing fellow, we do not know, but one North Carolinian who has been to Washington blames the whole thing on Rossevelt. His story is interesting if not generally true. We get this from the "Met in Hotel Lobbies" in the Washington Post of Sunday:

"The negro question in my State is more than a matter of social concern," said Mr. Thomas Sullivan Braxton, of North Carolina, at the Metropolitan last night; "it is an economic question. Labor is so scarce in the central and eastern portions of the State that thousands of dollars' loss to the cotton crop will probably result. Cotton is rotting in the fields, and the negroes, whose wants are few and who are inflated with an exaggerated idea of their importance, as a result of the administration's attitude toward the colored man and the race problem, decline to work. There is an idea among the ignorant negroes—and those of my State are ignorant, indeed—that Roosevelt will be elected, and that after that there will be no longer a necessity for the negro to labor.

"In some sections through which I recently passed some of the largest planters were without help, and were in the fields themselves, with members of their families, picking cotton. In these instances it was possible to save only a portion of the crop at best, and much of the crop has proved a total loss. Complaints are heard throughout the State. Always the same cry—the negroes, able to live on a few cents a day, refuse absolutely to work. One large planter of my acquaintance, who formerly employed fifteen hands, now has but one twelve-year-old boy on his place of 1,000 acres, and cannot secure any more.

"The white people of the State are responsible for this state of affairs. In spite of the clashes which have occurred between the races, the whites have an affectionate regard for the negro. In many instances of which I know personally planters allow several negro families to live on their land, charging no rent. If, however, the planter wishes a man to do a day's work, and goes to one of his non-paying tenants, the tenant invariably has an excuse. He can 'come to-morrow, but there's nothing doing to-day.'"

Some of the men with the Baltic fleet are to be left behind as witness before the commission which is to investigate the assault on the Hull fishing fleet. It is to be presumed that every man on the ships wants to be listed as a swift witness.

FOOL STILL ON HIS ERRAND.

North Carolina was once the roosting ground of Judge Tourgee, who was one of the most notorious of the carpet-baggers who infested this State during the reconstruction period. He has been heard from during this campaign, and here is how the Philadelphia Record lays him out:

Albion W. Tourgee, who went South after the war to reform and elevate that section, and who got a Consulate from a Republican administration because he published the story of his failure, has contributed his share to the official campaign literature of the day by a newspaper article arguing that the Monroe doctrine was far more imperialtic and aggressive and dictatorial than the course of this administration in Panama. It is evident that the author of "A Fool's Errand" is also author of a fool's view of American diplomacy. The Monroe doctrine was also a warning to the Holy Alliance, which was banded together to suppress political freedom, and proposed to make a beginning with the revolting American colonies of Spain. It was perfectly clear that if it succeeded there it would next turn its attention to us. The Monroe doctrine was a measure of self-defense; a notification to Europe that we would not wait to be attacked, but would resist the establishment of autocracy within striking distance of our own shores.

TEE PANAMA INCIDENT.

Editor William J. Bryan is hitting the Republican policies some hard blows in The Commoner, which, by the way, is one of our most interesting exchanges. Col. Bryan is a pungent editor, and in many a brief editorial he says things that are hard to get around. Here is one of them:

"If one desires to estimate the possible dangers to which we are exposed because of President Roosevelt's military enthuthiasm, he has only to consider the Panama incident. One morning the department wired to our representative at Panama: 'Understand there is an insurrection there.' The answer came back: 'Not yet. Expected this afternoon.' And in a few days a seceding republic was recognized and our influence was thrown against the parent republic, Colombia. Why? Because little Panama had a canal in her pocket that we wanted. This nation that spent four years bringing seceding States back into the Union, recognized a seceding section of Columbia with inecusable haste! If it had been England, Germany or France, instead of little Colombia, we would now be engaged in a bloody and expensive war. But, it may be said, that the president would not deal that way with a large nation. Then shame on a president who would bully a little republic like Colombia and treat it as he would not treat a big European government."

MORE THAN THE 'FOLKS CAN STAND.

Spence Blackbborn's name is mud now for sure. He'll never go to Congress from the Eighth District, because he says "eyether" for either. The graduates from Webster's blue back spelling book are irreconcilably down on him, because, they say, he tries to talk Nawthurn. Spence might have known that if he tried to use any twang but that peculiar to the honest folk of Western North Carolina he laid himself liable to be assaulted with a last year's bag of mush.

Spence, it seems, has persuaded the National Republican Committee to let him have some of the campaign fund. A dispatch from Concord says that it is stated on positive authority that the Hon. E. Spencer Blackburn on yesterday received the sum of $8,000 to spend in the eighth district on his election. For some days this $8,000 has been talked about, but it seems now that it has been landed by the "Drummer Boy," who will not retreat as long as the dough lasts, at least.

— L. C. Evans, of near Mooresville, Iredell county, who was stabbed in the head by Charles Thomas, of Charlotte, in an affray Wednesday afternoon, died Saturday about noon in the Presbyterian Hospital, Charlotte. An operation was performed on the injured man after his removal to the hospital Wednesday evening, from which he appeared to be so greatly improved that it was thought that he would recover. Evans and Thomas were in the vacant lot back of the city hall when the cutting occurred. Thomas entered a tent, from which he was ordered by the owner. A friend of Thomas resented this treatment, and heated words arose. Evans entered the tent and became involved in the quarrel. During the difficulty Thomas, who was holding a knife in his hand, stepped up and drove it into the head of Evans on the left side, the blade breaking off in the skull. Evans staggered up to the police station, while Thomas fled the vicinity, being captured after a hard chase of two miles by the fleet police officer.

He insists that a tariff on wool benefits the sheep raiser by increasing the price of wool, and in the next breath tells the workingmen of the country that a tariff on woollen goods cheapens them. No wonder a sheep is afraid of man.—The Commoner.

—— Inwardly fuming, because of the restraint put upon him by his campaign managers, President Roosevelt vents upon poor old Tyner the bottled-up explosiveness which has gathered head in him. Evidently our Rough Rider Executive has no greater respect for the vindicating determinations of the Courts than for the restraining provisions of treaties with weaker States.—Philadelphia Record.

—— We are indeed in a parlous condition, according to the Charlotte Observer, if the Republican party contain all the political wisdom in the country. The Observer notes the claim of the Republicans and reminds them that it is only the negro vote in close States that keeps them in power. If the negroes were elliminated North and South the Unieh would disintegrate because the Republicans would constitute a minority of the male whites, and they say the Democrats, who would constitute a substantial majority, are not competent to govern the country.—Philadelphia Record.

— Charlotte Observer: The Republicans have projected upon the North Carolina public a coarse, vulgar cartoon which represents ex-Judge Francis D. Winston riding in a carriage on a basis of equality with a thick-lipped, repulsive-looking negro. We desire to endorse the assertion of The Lumberton Argus that "the cartoon is a natural injustice to Mr. Winston, but is the natural result of the disgraceful cartoon methods employed against Mr. Roosevelt." It is true. What possible good can be expected to result from the beastly caricatnre displayed by either party we cannot divine, but the employment of them by one side naturally suggests retaliation by the other.

— A St. Louis special to the Charlotte Observer on Saturday says: Near "dead man's corner," a bend in the transit tracks from Ohio avenue east and west on Park avenue, H. J. English, 35 years old, a World's Fair visitor, from Asheville, N. C., received probably fatal injuries to-day by being struck by a Park avenue car. The accident happened directly in front of Compton Heights Laundry. The injured man was carried into the office of Dr. Greer, and the latter found a fracture of the skull, concussion of the brain, severe scalp wounds and injuries about the body. He sent English to the latter's stopping place. English was crossing Park avenue when struck. He was hurled 30 feet. Witnesses say the car was going at such speed that it did not stop for half a block.

— Col. F. A. Olds in the Charlotte Observer: How many people going into the telephone exchange and seeing the great switch-boards, with the helmetted girl sitting there, seeing all sorts of strange machinery, and listening to the soft whirring of the dynamos, can go back 26 years ago, when the telephone was born, so to speak, and remember what it was then. In the summer of 1877 there was a preliminary rage among young and old for tin cans, open at one end and with a string or piece of wire attached to the end left in. People talked into the open end of the can and the vibrations, passing along the string or wire, reached the other can, where the hearer was, and vice versa. Right on the heels of these playthings came the commercial telephone. The Western Union Telegraph Company operated the first exchange, in a little office in the rear of the telegraph office, with one operator, and it really took a year or two for the people to realize thas queer and almost uncanny instrument was not a toy instead of one of the most practical things in the world. Then a telephone was considered a luxury; now it is a necessity.

— Saturday afternoon one of the baggage handlers at the Southern depot at Charlotte noticed something peculiar about a certain trunk. It struck him as containing something dumpy. In its tumbling about, the bottom burst loose, and the negro peeped in. Fie, foh and fum. He smelt the blood of a man, and saw a man's coat. "I een't de man dat's to handle dis hyuh," and reported to Mr. James B Minter, the baggage agent. "Supp'n's wrong wid dat trunk, en dat's all I gut to say." Mr. Minter then took a sniff and a peep, and he came to the same conclusion. The sinister odor of blood was very plain. Mr. Minter let the trunk be and then 'phoned to the chief of police. The trunk had been checked at Gastonia to Davidson College, supposed to be for the Medical Department. Certain young men had been noticed watching the trunk afar off. They looked mightily like students but they stole silently away and stayed away. Chief Irwin went back to the station and 'phoned Sheriff Armstrong at Gastonia. The sheriff said that the description of this dead man corresponds with that of the negro Ben Clark, who was hanged at Shelby on Saturday, and his body turned over to his people who buried it about 12 miles from Gastonia.

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The cotton market opened steady at an advance of one point to a decline of two points, or rather better than due on the cables. Immediately following the call the favorable weather in the South and indications for very large receipts caused a slight reaction from the opening figures, but the list soon rallied in the absence of pressure to about 1@3 points net higher. Following this anticipations of a bearish census report at midday began to affect quotations. Demand fell off and one or two of the large room traders had fair sized selling orders. Towards midday the market worked down to 9.70 for January, and was around that level when the census report was issued. This installment of the report was taken bearishly but seemed to have been pretty well discounted, for after selling off another few points there was enough support to steady the market and final prices were three or four points up from the lowest. The closing tone was steady at a net decline of six to 10 points. Sales were estimated at 200,000 bales. Port receipts for the day were heavy, but exports were said to be about the largest on record for any single day, and exceeded receipts.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Cotton was dull at 10,00c, net receipts — bales; gross receipts 12,837 bales; stock 77,449 bales.

Spot cotton closed dull; middling uplands 10.00; middling gulf 10 25c; sales 5,100 bales.

FAIR EXCHANGE

A New Back for an Old One—How Told ne in Wilmington.

The back aches at times with a dull, indescribable feeling, making you weary and restless; piercing pains shoot across the region of the kidneys, and again the loins are so lame to stoop is agony. No use to rub or apply a plaster to the back in this condition. You cannot reach the cause. Exchange the back for a new and stronger one. Follow the example of this Wilmington citizen.

J. A. White, electrician for the Coast Line Railroad, at Rocky Mount, residing at 206 North Sixth street, says: "I have had great trouble with my back, right across the loins, and when I sit still for a while I hardly knew how to move and when I did you would think I was seventy-five years old. There were pains all over me and I could not tell where they were to strike me. I used liniments and lots of remedies but nothing did me any permanent good until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Bellamy's drug store and used them. They helped me in a very short time and seemed almost to oil up my joints; in fact, I have not had the pains since I used them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no substitute.

NEW BERN, N. C., Oct. 13.—The Democrats of this district are greatly pleased with the reports that come from the effective campaign which Hon. Charles R. Thomas is making in his canvass in the Third District. At some appointments he has met his opponent, ex-Judge W. S. O'B. Robinson, and his handling of his cause has delighted Democrats and made votes for the Democratic ticket. He is well equipped upon every issue, State and National, and his exposition of party principles and national issues has won for him the applause of thoughtful men in every part of the district in which he has spoken.

There is no doubt of his triumphant election by a very large majority. The career of Mr. Thomas in the House has been marked by close attention to every interest of his constituents and success in serving them. He has "made good" as the following appropriations obtained for his district show:

DAVIS IS ALERT.

Democratic Candidate for Vice-Presiden Answers Insinuations.

For some weeks the Republicans have been circulating among union men statements that the Democratic nominee for Vice-President was bitterly opposed to union labor and that he had severely treated union miners, dismissing them from his employ on the sole charge that they were connected with a union.

Mr. Davis' attention was called to the matter and copies of these Republican charges were mailed to him. Mr. Davis at once wrote to Mr. F. S. Landstreet, president of the Davis Coal & Coke Company, No. 1 Broadway, New York, a letter, of which the following is a part:

"Elkins, W. Va., Sept, 12.

"F. S. Landstreet, New York:

"The charge is made against me in the State of Indiana that I was a party to injunction proceedings and the eviction of miners from the houses of the Davis Coal & Coke Company, and I am accused of being hostile to union labor.

"As you know all the facts, I will be very much obliged if you make a statement in reply to this charge.

"Very truly yours,

"HENRY G. DAVIS."

To this communication, President Landstreet replied in the following terms:

"The facts are that during your term as President of the Davis Coal & Coke Company no labor trouble occurred.

"The company only once during its existence evicted any men from its houses, and that was prior to your being President.

"The only suggestion for injunction proceedings by this company was in 1892, and in that case the minor officials of the company, including myself, who was then General Manager, urged that the injunction be obtained, but you refused to allow us to make application to court, and the proceedings were dropped.

"The only discharge of union men by the company took place in the fall of 1903, fully a year after you had sold all your interests in the property and retired and I had been elected your successor.

"Until the severance of our business relations, more than two years ago, I had been associated with you in these corporate interests for about twenty years, and during that period you always showed the greatest consideration and concern for the welfare of all the employees, wage-earners, and others of the company.

"Not only is this true as to the employees themselves, but you have manifested your concern for the welfare of their families by establishing various relief associations, hospitals, schools, etc., for protection of them.

"Very truly yours,

"F. S. LANDSTREET, Prest."

MEANING OF MONEY WAGES.

Ballots Better Than Strikes to Raise Wages.

But few people understand clearly the difference between money wages and real wages. If they did so they would not vote as they do. Money wages is what is usually received for a day's or a week's work. Real wages are the goods which this money will purchase. From this it follows that there are two ways of raising wages: 1. By increasing the amount of money paid, and, 2, by reducing the prices of goods.

Not only do wage earners try to get as high money wages as possible, often becoming members of labor unions for this purpose, but they try to make their money go as far as possible when purchasing goods. Their wives will go miles to reach a store that sells goods 5 per cent. cheaper than nearby stores. They scold their wives if they pay five cents more than is necessary for an article. Yet, once in every two years they go to the polls—a majority of them—and vote for a system that increases the cost of living by about $100 a family per year, and that compels their wives to pay this much more for goods. This is perfectly inconsistent and illogical, but it is exactly what they do when they vote for tariff duties that foster and protect trusts that charge unnecessarily high prices for their products—prices often 30 to 40 per cent higher than they charge foreigners for the same goods.

Workingmen, then, have an opportunity every two years to raise their wages at least 10 per cent. with their votes. This is far more than they will ever raise average wages by strikes, though in individual instances and in certain industries, wages may be raised 50 or even 100 per cent. through labor organizations. By voting to "cut out" the protected trusts that charge monopoly prices and get an unfair share of the joint products of labor and capital, actual wages of all workers will be permanently raised 10 per cent. Not only that, but more goods will be produced and consumed at the lower prices that would result. Is not this better than strikes? Think it over, workingmen!

— A bold highway robbery was committed in Newbern Friday night about 11 o'clock. Mr. Lee Williams, a young gentleman, was on his way home, and in a street in the heart of the town was attacked by two men. He supposed they were negroes but could not identify them. One of the robbers poked a gun in his face while the other went through him, getting one $5 bill and five $1 bills. After that Williams was told to get, and he got.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an advertisement of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50 cents, at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store.

YOUR HAT

May Be a Stylish One, But It Makes Trouble.

A man usually buys a hat that's "in style," but the modern hat for men has lots to answer for.

Baldheads are growing more numerous every day. Hats make excellent breeding places for the parasitic germs which sap the life from the roots of the hair.

When your hair begins to fall out and your scalp is full of Dandruff it is a sure sign that these countless germs are busily at work.

There is but one way to overcome the trouble and kill the germs—that way is to apply Newbro's Herpicide to the scalp—it will kill the germs and healthy hair is sure to result.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

TUESDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 1.

A GENERAL ASSAULT UPON PORT ARTHUR.

Russians Driven from Their Positions After Desperate Fighting—Final Result of the Battle Not Known.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHE FOO, Oct. 31.—The general assault upon Port Arthur, which began in a preliminary way on October 24th, developed into a fiercely raging battle yesterday, when according to a hitherto infallible authority the Japanese flung heavy forces against the fortress in their third attempt to secure a commanding position. The result of yesterday's fighting is yet unknown. The Japanese have been preparing for this assault for a month. It is believed that the Japanese did not expect to capture the town on this occasion but to accomplish another important forward step. This plan was adopted following the first assault, when thousands of lives were sacrificed in an attempt to swarm over the fortifications by a mere force of numbers, regardless of loss.

This assault, like the previous one, was a climatic incident of weary week trench digging, gun mounting and small engagements.

On October 24th, having made every possible preparation, the Japanese opened fire with their artillery along the whole line, incidentally continuing their daily practice of dropping shells into the harbor. The Russians replied, the sounds, as of distant thunder, telling the inhabitants of Port Dalny that the long expected assault on the fortress was imminent. The bombardment continued variously until the afternoon of October 26th, when the Russian guns on Etse mountain, Anise mountain and Rihlung mountain became briefly silent. At 4 o'clock that afternoon a regiment of Japanese swept out from behind a recently captured hill adjacent to the Rihlung mountain, and advanced on the Russian trenches lying between Rihlung mountain and the railroad, occupying them after hours of fighting. The Russians stuck to their post till the Japanese were within a few yards, both sides hurling hand grenades at each other. The Japanese infantry are now using mechanical devices which enable them to throw grenades with great accuracy and rapidity. In the meanwhile another body of Japanese assaulted the trenches on the slope of Rihlung mountain. The Japanese trenches extended to certain portions of the slope and stopped some distance above the extreme Japanese outposts, where the ascent of Rihlung mountain became almost perpendicular. The Russian trenches seamed the slope. To advance against them over an unbroken slope, which was mined, even without Russian resistance, would have been a difficult task, but the slope had been torn up, great holes having been blown in it at various places by the bombardment, and the Japanese availed themselves of these indentations, which offered combined foothold and protection against bullets. In the meanwhile the fire of all their available artillery was directed against the Russian trenches, the Russians eventually retiring, whereupon the Japanese in thirty minutes constructed trenches sufficient to shield themselves. The Russians exploded mines, but the Japanese claim without result. One company of Japanese engaged in this fight aroused general complimentary comment for its remarkable coolness, executing the various manoeuvres for the purpose of securing shelter with automatic exactness as if on parade. Upon the retirement of their troops, the Russians opened fire from Liati mountain and that night they made a sortie. But the Japanese had in the meanwhile brought up machine guns, with which the sortie was repulsed.

Except for the knowledge that the bombardment was continued all information covering the period between October 27th and 29th is lacking, but presumably it is much of the same character as just described, the Japanese operations gradually assuming the proportions of the general attack of yesterday.

Capt. Jack Crawford, the Poet-Scout, at the Academy To-morrow Evening.

The second number in the Lyceum Course of atractions at the Academy of Music will be Capt. Jack Crawford, the Poet-Scout, to-morrow evening. The sale of seats for subscribers commenced at Plummer's yesterday morning and the sheet will be open to the general public this morning. Here is what Dr. W. W. Landrum, the well known pastor of the First Baptist church, of Atlanta, has to say of the entertainment:

"Captain Jack Crawford is wholesome and human. These are two characteristics which excite my admiration in any man. What Captain Jack says is on the right side of every moral and religious subject. He talks right out his rock-bottom convictions and they are sane and sensible. Good people who are accustomed to "go slow" on the spectacular orator, may trust Captain Jack as a safe guide to the old-fashioned road which leads to righteousness, patriotism and heaven."

BUILDING COLLAPSED.

A Four-Story Office Structure in Memphis—One Man Killed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

MEMPHIS, TENN., October 31.—With a terrific crash, the building occupied by the Continental Savings Bank, at No. 19 Madison street, collapsed at 10 o'clock this morning, burying a number of persons in the wreckage. So far as known only one person, a negro saloon porter, remains under the debris. The other victims were quickly rescued by the fire and police departments. Joseph Fischer, a tailor, who had a shop in the building, is the only person known to have sustained serious injuries. He was badly mashed around the body but will recover.

That many people were not killed is almost miraculous. The building, which was recently detached from a similar structure, was a four-story office building.

While a matinee was in progress at the Grand Opera house in Atlanta yesterday a moving picture machine caught fire and instantly filled the house with smoke Ladies fainted and were trampled upon in the rush but no one was seriously injured. The fire was extinguished before any damage was done.

PARKER ARRAIGNS REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Addressed Enormous Mass Meeting in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., Last Night.

A TALK TO BUSINESS MEN.

His Reception Attended by a Demonstration Seldom if Ever Equalled—Escorted by the Most Prominent Democrats in City.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, Oct, 31.—Judge Alton B. Parker was the leading speaker at a Democratic mass meeting in Madison Square Garden to-night. The great hall was crowded and 850 policemen were required to keep back the people who surged through Madison Square and adjacent streets.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Parker and Davis Business Men's Association, and representatives of the leading exchanges and clubs of the city were in the audience. Most of the people in the Garden carried small American flags which they waved energetically when enthusiasm was manifest.

Judge Parker was escorted to the garden by a committee of one hundred, consisting of the most prominent Democrats in the city. Heading the escort were Mayor George B. McClellan and Isidor Strauss, the latter the presiding officer of the evening, and among the others were Admiral W. S. Schley, Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Wm. B. Hornblower, August Belmont, Carl Schurz, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Thomas F. Ryan, John G. Carlisle, Wm. T. Jerome, John B. McDonald, Perry Belmont, Wm. McAdoo, Harry Payne Whitney, Daniel S. Lamont, Herman Ridder and Edward M. Shepard.

Judge Parker followed his manuscript to the letter but delivered his speech in a forceful manner despite the fact that it was read to his audience. His speech follows:

More and more, as this canvass has proceeded and the unjust stewardship of the Republican party has been made clear, am I convinced that in this election we are confronted with issues which must be determined rightly if we are to avoid grave consequence to our country. The conviction has grown stronger as the days have gone by, and I have examined the record of the Republican party and even the defences it interposes for its justification, that to permit the conduct of this party to go unrebuked, is to invite the establishment of new and dangerous principles and standards for our guidance as a people. Our return to old fashioned ways cannot, in my opinion, be too precipitate, unless we are prepared to shut our eyes to the consequences that will follow if we proceed further a long a path that is full of danger to our future.

In an earlier utterance I have referred in detail to what is notoriously going on in the matter of the collection of funds by the Republican party for the campaign. Now, I know, as you know, that money is required in order to defray the expenses of a campaign. Under right conditions its collection and expenditure are equally legitimate. But the spectacle of demanding campaign funds now presented to this country is, when rightly regarded, of a character to shock the moral sense.

We shall do well to pause for a moment to ask whither we are drifting, in our indifference to right standards and to our old fashioned sense of propriety in such matters.

Congress creates a new department of commerce and labor. Of that department the President of the United States appoints a secretary. The secretary was his private secretary. Within the department provision is made for the collection from large corporations, including the so-called trusts, of information, which, it is to be borne in mind, is to be submitted to the President for public or private use, as he may direct. By grace of the same executive this secretary through whose department this information is collected becomes the chairman of the national Republican committee, whose chief duty it has been and still is to collect funds for the purpose of securing the election of the president. And it is notorious that there has resulted from this organized importunity—whatever may be the precise way in which it is made effective—an overflowing treasury for the committee, of which boast is openly and continually made.

Although this may be satisfactory to the conscience of Republican leaders, it must, I firmly believe, be condemned as nothing short of scandalous, not alone by myself or the Democratic party, but by the American people as well.

It is said by Mr. Hay that the character of Mr. Lincoln furnishes the standard for Mr. Roosevelt in his conduct as president. I do not have to pause to hear your thundering no when I ask would Lincoln have done or permitted this to be done?

The whole performance is a shameless exhibition of a willingness to make compromise with decency in order that sums of money may be gathered together sufficiently vast to justify the insolent boast even now that there is no question as to the success which by such a course the Republican managers so confidently predict. The performance is entitled only to the credit that it in no sense partakes of hyprocrisy. It is as bold as it is improper and indefensible.

It has been my fortune to take an active part in three presidential campaigns. The first of these resulted in the election in 1876 of Samuel J. Tilden. The younger generation which has come upon the scene since that time, can scarcely understand the forces which this great man had to meet and combat. He himself felt how unequal was the contest which he waged. He knew that he was devoted to the interests of his countrymen and that they sympathized with the aims which he so well represented; but he was disposed to admit that he always felt how strong the odds were against him and how almost hopeless it was for him to combat the combined forces of greed and official power.

The 1880 campaign found the party seriously handicapped, because circumstances compelled the putting aside of the issue of fraud—an issue that could hardly be made effective in the support of Tilden and Hendricks, who were deprived of the office to which they had been elected in 1876. A gallant struggle was made, however, by the party in the face of claims most insistently made from every platform throughout the country, that the Democratic party could not be trusted. And foremost in the struggle, furnishing the sinews for the political battle, were the men who were enjoying special privileges.

The other presidential campaign in which I took an active part was that which, in 1884, resulted in the nomination, the election and inauguration of Grover Cleveland. As I look back now upon this campaign I recall that its one dominating feature was the cry that the Democratic party could not be trusted to deal with the business interests of the country. From every Republican newspaper in the land went up that foul stream of personal abuse which made that canvass a disgrace to the party that resorted to those methods.

The only excuse for these falsehoods was the fear that the gains of greedy monopolists would in some way be interfered with, and an attempt was made at every turn to represent to the country that these represented its great business interests. In spite of this indecency and bitterness, in spite of the unlimited expenditure of money in every quarter, the Democrats carried the election. It would scarcely become me in speaking before an audience of business men, more than to ask the question whether or not in their own opinion every legitimate business interest of the country was not promoted and enlarged by the election and the subsequent administration of this man? He enforced economy, he settled great disputed questions and he administered the government with an honesty and a courage that nothing in all our history could be more positive or distinctive.

We now hear again the same old parrot cry, that the business interests of the country cannot be entrusted to the keeping of one-half of its people, and that their chosen representative, who ever he may be, is the enemy of thrift and industry.

And that cry that wells up from the throats of those interests is to preserve untouched the statutes which permit them to collect tribute from the people, or who are interested in combinations organized to prevent competition.

You, who as business men, are here to night, and those whom you represent, have not thus shown an interest in politics because you think there is something in it for you, or because you are the beneficiaries of favors granted by law, or because you desire legislation which will turn taxes from the government treasury, in which they properly belong, and put them in your own pockets.

You do not belong to that order of business men who levy contributions in Wall street, upon timid or grasping industries. You are not compelled, on the other hand, to purchase immunity for some wrong doing, either actual or prospective, or to compound such offence committed in the past or contemplated in the future. Nor do you belong to those who hope further to enrich themselves at the expense of the investing public and of the people and their government, by contributing illegally from funds entrusted to you what you know will be expended to corrupt the suffrages of your countrymen. On the contrary, you are interested, as all right minded men are, in the encouragement of thrift, the accumulation of property, the upbuilding of all our industries, the development of every part of our great country and the perpetuation of government on lines laid down by our fathers.

And you know that an equal chance for all men is absolutely essential to that healthful prosperity which all patriotic men most admire for our beloved country.

We stand as a country upon the threshold of a great foreign trade. Our natural resources, the industry, the enterprise and the ingenuity of our people, our ability to command efficient labor from every quarter of the globe, and the strength and flexibility of the institutions founded for us on strong and right lines, all combine for fitness for supplying an almost infinitely increased demand for our products.

But foreign trade cannot be won by a people which consents to put itself into the leading strings of second childhood. It cannot become the heritage of manufacturers who must be paid a bounty, in order that they may mulct their own countrymen.

We are approaching the parting of the ways. Either we want, as we certainly need, a foreign trade in articles honestly made by honest and industrious workmen as the result of steady and lucrative employment, and honestly sold in all markets, or we may look forward to a time, not remote, when only a fraction of our existing machinery and powers of production can be utilized, and when idleness and demoralization must of necessity come as the effect of our own short sighted policy.

In due time our farmers, who now furnish so large a proportion of our exports, will either reach the limit of productive power, or our own population will consume what the country can grow. What, then, will become of our delusive balance of trade; where then will our artisans find remunerative employment? What will it matter how prudent our investors may be? When our people have taken advantage of great economic opportunities how shall we, wearing industrial handcuffs, meet our responsibilities to our own people?

What we need to do is to cultivate foreign markets for manufactured products, thus enabling our mills to run to their full capacity, securing steady employment for our workmen. That policy was suggested in that last and great speech of President McKinley which has troubled the "stand-patters" ever since.

Its development requires that imported raw materials required by our manufacturers shall be obtained on the most favorable terms and it demands that we shall cultivate agreeable relations with all foreign countries.

At the conclusion of Judge Parker's speech he was given a prolonged ovation. When he left the hall for the Hotel Seville many people also departed, but thousands remained to hear the other speakers, who were Benjamin F. Shively, of Indiana, and Attorney General Cunneen, of New York.

U. S. SUPREME COURT.

Argument Heard in Case Involving Use of Safety Appliances on Railroads.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Supreme Court of the United States heard argument to-day in the case of Johnson vs. the Southern Railway Company, involving the interstate commerce law requiring railroads to be equipped with uniform safety appliances. Johnson had an arm crushed while coupling two cars on which the couplers were of different make, and brought suit for damages, basing his claim upon the fact that the appliances did not comply with the requirements of the law. The argument was made for Johnson by W. L. Maginnis, of Ogden, Utah, and for the railroad company by Maxwell Evarts, of New York. Solicitor General Hoyt appeared for the government.

At the meeting yesterday of the Baptist Ministerial Conference (white) of Richmond and Manchester, Va., resolutions denouncing lynching and requesting the State general assemblage at its next meeting which takes place at Petersburg, to call upon all pastors to reprobate it as not a deterrent of crime and as brutalizing to the community were adopted.

THE M'CUE MURDER TRIAL RESUMED.

Commonwealth's Attorney Introduced Further Testimony and Recalled the Son.

EVIDENCE FOR THE DEFENCE.

Witnesses Testify to the Pleasant Relations Between the Prisoner and His Wife—The Jury Again Make a Visit to McCue Residence.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, VA., Oct. 31.—When the trial of former Mayor McCue was resumed in the Corporation Court to-day, "Willie" McCue, the oldest son of the accused, was recalled to the stand. When the Commonwealth produced a letter which the son had written to Mrs. Griggs, an aunt living in Athens, Ga., the defence objected to its admission, the Commonwealth contending that it was admissible as showing the influences surrounding the boy and for the effect it would have on his previous testimony. The court admitted the letter for the purpose of discrediting the witness, but not as evidence against the accused. In it he told how he missed his mother. "Here I am among all my father's people, and they wonder why I took such a step in this case," he wrote. "But I am going to do what is right in God's care in spite of any human being living." He also stated that he couldn't sleep, that he never was in a worse case and that he now had only one thing to live, for his little sister.

The deepest interest was aroused when the letter was offered and all eyes were directed toward the witness, who was asked if he had written it. He admitted that he had.

Replying to counsel for the defence he declared that Ernest Crawford spoke of the use of money in speaking to the detective of a servant.

The Commonwealth, although having announced Saturday that it had rested, introduced further testimony to day. Witnesses testified that they saw no signs of any one having passed out of the house by the porch, roof or down the trees against the porches. Professor Mallett, of the University of Virginia, said the blood on the baseball was not that of a chicken, but that the size of the corpuscles came within the range of human blood.

George Thomas, a negro working about the city hall, testified to a meeting of the accused with his wife last May, which he said was not as pleasant as he thought it ought to have been.

The introduction of the Willie McCue letter came unexpectedly in view of the Commonwealth having rested Saturday. The defence recalled Ernest Crawford, who denied with emphasis that he had stated on one occasion in the presence of S. G. Waller and Miss Moore that he had said that his sister and Mr. McCue had been married about fifteen years and that their honeymoon was not yet over. This was done to lay the foundation for the testimony of the defendant's first witness, S. G. Waller, who attended the University with Mr. Crawford, and who testified that Mr. Crawford did make a statement similar to that in his presence.

Mr. Waller said the reported testimony of Mr. Crawford as to conditions at the McCue home came as a surprise to him. Insurance policies were introduced by the defence, showing that the defendant carried an aggregate of $83,000 life and accident insurance, his wife being named as the beneficiary. It was stated that there are more policies to be offered later.

The jury was taken to the McCue residence at the close of the morning session to make certain observations.

The jury examined the outside of the McCue residence to note the proximity of the trees to the porches.

The physical condition of the wife of Dr. McCue, a brother of the accused, preventing her appearance in court, the court and jury called at her home, where she testified that between 9:15 and 9:30 p. m. on the night of the tragedy the telephone bell rang and her husband answered it. Immediately after she learned in conversation with him what had happened at the McCue residence. The accused, who was standing within a few feet of his sister-in-law, burst into tears and took a seat, burying his face in his hands. Mrs. McCue said her husband left immediately, carrying his emergency case with him.

Webb Raine, of Richmond, testified that Ernest Crawford had spoken to him several times while they were at the University together of the happiness of the McCue home. Mr. Crawford had stated on the stand that he had not discussed the home life of the accused and his wife.

T. W. Burke, whose office in Harrisonburg adjoins that of Mr. Crawford, said that Mr. Crawford had said that Mr. McCue was a man whom any young man engaging in business might pattern after; but when the witness insisted that Crawford had never discussed the domestic relations of the McCue family with him, Mr. Lee, counsel for defence, announced that the defence in turn had been taken by surprise and stated his purpose to cross-examine Mr. Burke as an adverse witness, and proceeded to do so, presenting him with questions as to statements which he asked if he had made. The witness said that in the presence of a Mr. Deckert he had expressed surprise that Crawford had never mentioned to him the things he had stated before the coroner's jury as to the domestic relations of Mr. and Mrs. McCue.

Miss Addie Moore a teacher who formerly lived in Charlottesville, said that Mr. Crawford and Mr. Waller had called at their home in this city some three years ago, and when the subject of matrimony and honeymoons were discussed Mr. Crawford said that if he ever married he would like to live like Mr. and Mrs. McCue, that they had been married fifteen years and their honeymoon was not yet over. She added that Mr. Crawford frequently had spoken of a happy home in referring to the McCues.

The defence then placed eight witnesses on the stand, each of whom testified to pleasant relations between the accused and his wife.

Frank Miner, a negro butler at the McCue home for a number of years, said they got along "nicely" together and he never saw or heard any quarrels.

Mrs. Hanger, of Staunton, and J. P. Browning, visitors at the McCue home, never had heard a cross word there.

Miss Taylor, a seamstress, said Mrs. McCue always accompanied her husband to the door when he left after meals.

Mrs. E. O. McCue, a sister-in-law, testified to cordial relations.

Policeman Grany said he had often seen the defendant and his wife at public occasions and that the former was kind and attentive.

Mrs. Crawford, a relative, and Mr. Turner testified to the pleasant relations.

Miss Irvine, who resides at the home of Dr. Frank McCue, heard a telephone call between 9:15 and 9:30 on the night of the tragedy and then heard McCue tell his wife what had happened at the home of the accused.

At this juncture defendant's attorney asked that they be permitted to withdraw and confer with their client and at 4:30 they returned into court and asked in justice to their client that a recess be taken until to-morrow that they might hold a further conference, announcing at the same time that they expected to rest their case by noon to-morrow. The request was granted.

Counsel for the accused declined to say whether the conference related to whether or not the defendant should go on the stand and declined to make any statement as to the conclusions reached at their conference. The announcement that they expected to conclude their case by to-morrow noon gave the impression that the defendant would not go on the stand, as it is thought that his examination could not be concluded by that time.
